MEANINGFUL READS & CONVERSATIONS

Four Thousand Weeks: Time Management for Mortals is the most important (anti)productivity book published since COVID. Oliver Burkeman takes a holistic and healthful approach to productivity. All at CSU are welcome.

We selected Four Thousand Weeks for this semester's CSU Writes' book club because we know that sustainable writing and healthful productivity contribute to a meaningful career and to our well being. Let's get together to talk about embracing realistic limits and "getting meaningful things done, here and now, in our work and our lives together," to quote Oliver Burkeman.
