

CSU WRITES
COLORADO STATE UNIVERSITY

Writing with ease and grace lunch & learn

APRIL 2, 2024
12-1:30pm
LSC 304-305

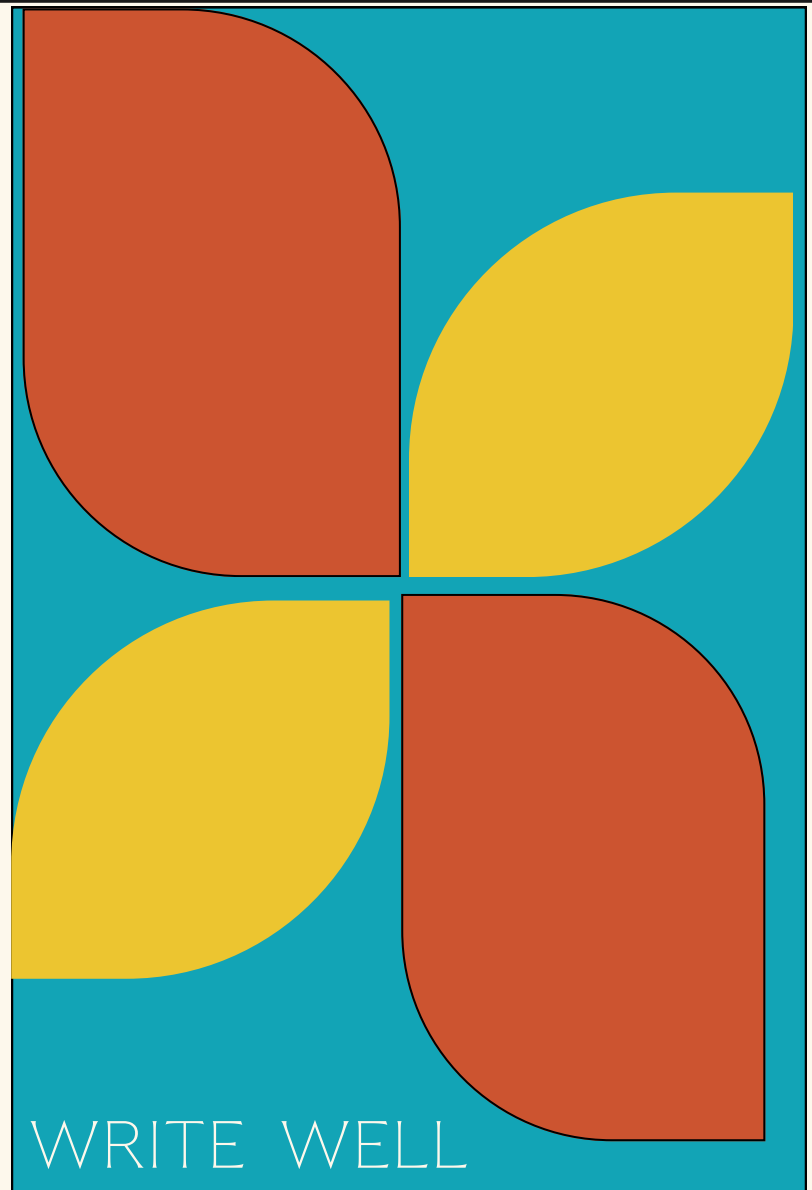

Writing is a challenge for many in academia, yet it is most compelling when done with ease and grace.

In practice there are hurdles in the way. Some of these hurdles involve a lack of practical skills, these can be overcome by taking a class, course, or other ways to improve.

But many of us face personal hurdles in writing with ease and grace. Examples of these include the curse of perfection, a wish to not be vulnerable and keep a low profile, or a sense of having to do it all alone.

In this interactive workshop we discuss the barriers we encounter in effective writing, and ways to overcome these barriers.

This session is part of the Write Well series for Spring 2024.
Lunch buffet for diverse food needs will be provided. Register early.

Build your wellness-based writing practice

Dr. Roel Snider

Award-winning Geophysicist and W.M. Keck Distinguished Chair of Professional Development Education at the Colorado School of Mines.

REGISTER HERE

Register at the
CSU Writes website
csuwrites.colostate.edu/guest-speakers

Colorado State University